

THE CHILDREN'S LAW CENTER

Annual Report

2019

OUR MISSION

To promote the best possible outcomes for children and families in transition or crisis by providing access to legal services and support they could not otherwise afford and by advancing collaborative, non-adversarial options for resolving conflicts.

Dear Friends,

As another successful year has come to pass, we find ourselves in awe of the unwavering support you continue to show us. Because of your commitment and generosity, we are able to help protect the best interests of indigent children in Connecticut, moving their turbulent family circumstances in a positive direction.

This annual report highlights the incredible work CLC was able to do in 2019, achievements that are just as much yours as they are our own:

- We served 1,955 children through our programs.
- In 78% of our cases, the presence of chronic conflict decreased
- 73% of our Families in Transition mediation participants reported that they would return to FIT before returning to family court
- 72% of callers to the Children's Law Line found CLC's advice to be "helpful" or "very helpful"

From the bottom of our hearts, thank you for your support and for being a part of the Children's LAW Center family

THANK YOU

LEGAL REPRESENTATION

In 2019...

We served 588 children in 365 families through our Legal Representation Program.

In 78% of cases, conflict decreased

83% of CLC's cases remained closed with no re-emerging issues

In 71% of cases, family environment improved after CLC involvement

The cases we handle are among the most difficult and contentious that the courts see, and many are exacerbated by conditions of violence, addiction, abuse, neglect, mental illness, incarceration or other chronic challenges.

The centerpiece of CLC's services is our Legal Representation Program

We play a unique role in Connecticut's legal aid community as the only agency devoted to indigent children in Family Court, focusing on protecting the interests of children whose parents are involved in high-conflict family court disputes.

The Children's Law Center was appointed as Guardian ad litem to represent two girls: eight-year-old Paige and six-year-old Emma. When the girls were just four and two-years-old, their parents, Jason and Alexa, separated due to Jason's history of substance abuse and criminal offenses. Shortly after, Jason was arrested and incarcerated for two years. Upon his release from prison, Alexa allowed Jason to see Paige and Emma under her supervision, but when Jason began coming to his visitations intoxicated, Alexa refused visitation. Jason then disappeared without warning for two years and upon his return, contacted Alexa and asked to resume his parenting access. Jason had used those two years to work on himself and told Alexa that he was now sober but she was distrustful of his sobriety and refused to allow Jason to see Paige and Emma.

When Jason filed a motion requesting that he see his children every other weekend, the court appointed The Children's Law Center to represent the minor children. CLC's attorney and social worker worked with Jason on ways he could maintain his sobriety as well providing him tools to decrease negative communication with Alexa. CLC's goal was to help Jason and Alexa establish a healthier co-parenting relationship with one another for the benefit of their children.

With improved communication and CLC's help, trust began to form between Jason and Alexa. Jason's relationships with Paige and Emma began to mend, allowing CLC to focus on reunification of the children with their father. With CLC's intervention came the slow but steady process of repairing the broken relationship. It was a long road for the family but with CLC providing the necessary tools to Jason and Alexa to effectively communicate and co-parent, a parenting agreement was reached. Since then, the case has remained closed and Paige and Emma enjoy spending weekends at their dads; they are overjoyed to have both parents back in their lives.

In 2019...

The Children's Law Center served 1,335 children through 863 calls.

72% of callers surveyed said that they found the Law Line either "Helpful" or "Very Helpful."

The labyrinth of agencies, courts and laws are often overwhelming and unmanageable even for the most experienced advocate, and simply impenetrable for the average parent. Our Children's Law Line is an easily accessible legal resource that can assist callers on a variety of topics including custody, visitation and children's rights. Services like our Law Line are desperately needed by those who want to help a child, but who are at the mercy of a complex system. All calls placed to our Law Line are free, answered by a trained professional, and open to everyone as a public service without screening or income requirements.

A respondent said:
"Thank you! Wow! You have changed everything. I don't know what I would do if I didn't call."

1-888-LAW DOOR

In 2019...

We served 32 children in 24 families through FIT.

Our Families in Transition (FIT) Program provides mediation and positive co-parenting services to low and middle income level parents who are embroiled in high-conflict family court disputes. CLC provides a gender-balanced team of mediators consisting of an attorney and a mental health professional, both of whom are trained mediators and familiar with the family court process. Our FIT program helps each party voice concerns and understand the concerns of the other parent. We give parents the tools necessary to communicate more effectively with one another, in turn decreasing their conflict level and creating a healthier, more stable environment for their children.

THANK YOU

To the volunteer professionals whose invaluable donation of time makes FIT possible!

A parent participating in FIT mediation commented: "Working with my mediation team in the FIT program has been a very positive experience. Divorce is a difficult process and they help to make it very amicable and fair. Also, with the payment being on a sliding scale it is affordable."

Meet Our 2019-2020 Roisman Fellow

Each year a recipient is selected for the competitive Roisman Fellowship. It is designated to give law students the opportunity to get hands-on legal experience at The Children's Law Center. In 2019 we said farewell to Onya Brown and welcomed Olivia Benson!

Read more about Olivia's experience with CLC below:

My undergraduate studies focused largely on psychology and I was fortunate to work in two research labs: the Early Detection of Autism Laboratory and the Child and Adolescent Anxiety Laboratory. One summer I participated in an internship at the Child Mind Institute assisting in an intensive therapy program for children with selective mutism. I also partnered with the UConn Health Child Trauma Clinic in order to carry out my honors research thesis, during which I studied the benefits of drama therapy for adolescents who had experienced trauma. These experiences inspired me to explore family law in law school.

Receiving the Roisman Fellowship in Family Law at the Children's Law Center has been an incredible opportunity to use the skills I learned studying psychology, while also honing new legal skills. The Children's Law Center staff is knowledgeable, experienced, and supportive. I was given the freedom to treat cases truly as my own without ever feeling lost. The numerous opportunities to conduct client intake meetings, do home and school visits, attend short calendar and represent my clients in front of a judge have been absolutely invaluable. The Fellowship has allowed me to narrow the gap between what we learn in school and the practical nature of how the law works outside of the classroom.

As an evening student, I have two more years before I graduate law school. In that time, I plan to explore more areas of the law and continue to use and hone the skills I've learned. I am undecided on the exact area of law I wish to practice, but I hope to always give back to the families and children in need through pro bono work.

Blue State Coffee

Blue State Coffee allocates a percentage of its sales each year to benefit local non-profits. The Children's Law Center was fortunate to have been one of 8 non-profits chosen by Hartford's Blue State Coffee to receive a donation and we are so thankful for their support!

Legislative Breakfast

Thank you, Representative John Hampton, for hosting The Children's Law Center's Legislative Breakfast. We would also like to thank all the legislators & legislative staff who stopped by to learn more about The Children's Law Center and what we do!

Congrats Justine!

In 2019, Justine was the recipient of two awards: The Charles J. Parker Legal Services Award, presented to a member of the CT Bar who has demonstrated a dedication to the delivery of legal services to the disadvantaged in CT, and the Greater Hartford Family Advocacy Center Works of Compassion Award.
